

Join us online to celebrate the launch of

LATINA TEACHERS IN THE DEEP SOUTH

Available
Now!

Dr. Vanessa E. Vega
Author

Latina Teachers in the Deep South

Testimonios, Cuentos y Consejos

Vanessa E. Vega

PETER LANG

Given recent restrictive education laws across the United States that aim to limit students' counternarratives and teachers' autonomy, humanizing teaching strategies are essential. This webinar will center testimonio as pedagogy and as a liberatory writing genre for secondary education and higher education students to explore their lived experiences, intentionally articulate a call to action, and bear witness to each other's uniquely complex identities. Participants will receive sample writing prompts, mentor text suggestions, and recommendations for sharing student-generated testimonios.

Dr. Vanessa E. Vega is a Visiting Assistant Professor of Instruction at the University of South Florida. She is committed to centering the lives of Latina educators, upholding humanizing epistemologies, and blending creative and academic writing. Her work examines her lived experiences of navigating murky spaces and swimming contra la corriente. Dr. Vega is a former National Board Certified Teacher who taught English Language Arts to middle and high school students in Miami-Dade County Public Schools.

24

SEPTEMBER

Part of Hispanic Heritage Month

ONLINE | FREE TO ATTEND

6:30 PM - 8:00 PM

6:30 Author
Discussion

7:15 Q & A with Participants

[View an excerpt
via "Look Inside" feature](#)

DAVID C. ANCHIN CENTER
FOR THE ADVANCEMENT OF TEACHING

EMPOWERING EDUCATORS TODAY TO BUILD THE SCHOOLS OF TOMORROW

RSVP at www.tinyurl.com/vanessavegabook